How to report anti-social behaviour

We want to make sure Camden is safe for everyone. We know that anti-social behaviour can impact the quality of life for Camden residents, and that's why we've introduced new measures to investigate every report of anti-social behaviour.

Anti-social behaviour is any behaviour that makes you feel unsafe, or that you feel might make other people unsafe. This might be drug use or dealing, threatening behaviour, abuse or vandalism and property damage.

Every incident of anti-social behaviour you report will help us to identify those involved and take action against them, or provide them with the right support if needed.

Reporting anti-social behaviour
- To report anti-social behaviour or a crime that is taking place or about to take place call 999

Camden — Community Safety Enforcement

What is anti-social behaviour?
This is any behaviour that makes you feel unsafe, or that you feel might make other people unsafe – like drug use or dealing, threatening behaviour, abuse, vandalism and property damage.

Help us keep Camden safe
You can help by reporting anti-social behaviour. Every report helps us build a picture of unsafe activity across the borough.

How to report
Report online at camden.gov.uk/reporting-antisocial-behaviour
Or call 0207 974 4444
In an emergency, always call 999

What happens when you report to us?
- Every incident reported will be assessed by an Anti-Social Behaviour Officer. We will gather evidence and interview any victims or witnesses.
- Our specialist teams will work alongside the police to develop an action plan to address the issue. This could involve patrolling the area and engaging with perpetrators.
- Sometimes perpetrators of anti-social behaviour may be vulnerable and need some support, too. If this is the case, we'll make sure we connect them with that support – for example, our Change Grow Live Integrated Drug and Alcohol Service in Camden.

Spotlight on: Willoughby Street
Recently, concerned local residents on Willoughby Street made a report about ongoing drug use, drug dealing and theft. In response, our Community Safety team have patrolled the area, monitored activity and worked with residents to make sure we're addressing their issues, while the police have worked to identify people who've broken the law.
