ANON-WN5E-E9U5-7	Public drinking and (more often now) drug-taking leads to: Loud, disruptive behaviour, groups gathering outside our homes, and a general sense of disorder. It makes the area feel unsafe, raises stress levels, and regularly disrupts daily life & sleep	Camden High Street and surrounding side streets including the lock and towpath areas.	Yes	linked to people consuming alcohol AND drugs in public places has a noticeable and negative impact on my daily life. It often leads to groups gathering outside residential buildings, increased shouting, loud music, and general disorder on the street. This creates an environment that feels less safe and significantly raises noise levels, particularly in the evenings. The combination of public drinking and businesses playing amplified music onto the street makes the area feel chaotic and poorly managed. It disrupts sleep, affects the ability to work or relax at home, and contributes to a sense of ongoing stress for residents. It also gives the impression that the area is not being properly monitored or the

Camden Town	Yes	Yes, I support the proposal outlined in the Draft Order by Camden Council to introduce a borough-wide Public Space Protection Order (PSPO) to address antisocial behaviour linked to alcohol consumption in public places and to promote Camden as a Responsible Drinking Borough. Antisocial behaviour associated with public alcohol consumption can have a significant negative impact on residents, businesses, and visitors. A borough-wide PSPO would provide a consistent and proportionate framework for enforcement, enabling authorised officers to intervene where behaviour is causing nuisance, disorder, or distress.	45 – 54	Male	Yes	Christian		African		Heterosexual or straight	No									ANON-WN5E-E9U6-8	2026-02-25 16:24:35

If powers are overused, Camden could become an intimidating place to experience takeaway food, live music, DJs at multiple venues etc. and it will just drive punters - particularly young people - away. This could have a serious negative impact on Camden's economy. (2) Where young people are pushing alcohol-related boundaries, Camden is a safe place to be. 	Work in Camden			Not Answered	Very often	Very often	Street drinking related violence					More than ten times	You have drug users constantly getting drunk daily, litter and smashed from people strewn over the road and canal, the levels of noise/rowdy behaviour especially at night form people leaving pubs/clubs as well as street drinking is horrendous.	Camden Town Centre	Yes	It does not go far enough, there should be a ban on open street drinking like there was ten years ago bringing back the controlled drinking zone as well as taking off sight drinking off pubs/clubs	45 – 54	Prefer not to say	Prefer not to say	No religion/belief		English/Welsh/Scottish/Northern Irish/ British		Prefer not to say	No									ANON-WN5E-E99K-1	2026-01-28 10:20:31

Live in Camden				EC1	Not very often	Fairly often		Big problem	Not a big problem	Fairly big problem	Big problem	Five to ten times	They congregate in street / shop areas below my flat and play music / shout and scream . Its always in the early hours like between midnight and 4am (sometimes later) -		Yes	Order is ok - but who is going to catch the people doing it ? Otherwise its just virtue signalling by Camden ... with something that is never going to work Its usually groups of young blokes - with the odd screechy female - creating a racket between 1 and 5 am - and I'm hardly likely to go down in my night clothes (a single female pensioner) to confront them. At that time the Council is not interested and its never the same people so having a 'diary' of noise nuisance a la council is a waste of time ; as I understand it the community police knock off a good deal earlier	65 – 74	Female	No	Christian	what has this to do with anything ?
